

To logconcavity and beyond

Kazuhiro Ishige

The University of Tokyo

In 1976 Brascamp and Lieb proved that the heat flow preserves logconcavity. In this talk, introducing a variation of concavity, we show that the heat flow preserves stronger concavity than logconcavity and we identify the strongest concavity preserved by the heat flow.